THE CIRCUS BAD BOY.

How He Created a Disturbance at the Waifs' Mission Dinner.
 [Chicago Times.]

The nearness of the circus tents to the Cavalry Armory yesterday proved to be a misfortune. The ordinary bad boy is bad enough, but the circus bad boy is so villainous that he is beyond description. There was a special object of the latter element at the lunch given by the Chicago Waifs' Mission in the armory yesterday to make life burdensome to the long-winded speakers, and to wear out Officer Dewey's whip. The first part of the entertainment went off as smoothly as clock-work. The boys had to keep quiet, for fear they would be debarred from the privileges of the tables. There were between 400 and 500 waifs of either sex present, a large number of them boys. At a given signal they formed in line—or rather in a circle extending around the hall—with the girls at the head. It would be hard to find a greater variety of faces or a more unique assortment of wearing apparel. Cast-off aprons made into fantastic overskirts adorned some of the girls; the clothes of most of the boys were nondescript. A quarter of an inch of Chicago dust was the prevailing style on boys' shoes, though some arose to the rank of dude by appearing in goloshes eight sizes too large, and a few had their feet incased in leather. At the head of the procession of boys, as it marched to the tables, was a wheel-chair in which was seated a lad about 14 years of age, both of whose legs had been amputated above the knees. He was run over by the cars at the waifs' picnic last year, and since then has been a special object of charity by the mission. Behind him was a colored urchin whose arms were shriveled up by some disease until they were scarcely larger than pipestems. There were some with only one foot, others with a hand missing, and scores who did not have their regular allotment of fingers. An effort was made to seat the crowd in order, but their appetites were too strong for their manners. There was strawberry shortcake upon the table, and the sight was too much for the boys. A scramble for places ensued, in which the strongest got seats and strawberries, and the weakest looked hungry and groaned. All were provided for, however, as those who couldn't get seats at the tables made tables of their laps, and feasted just the same. A white-haired man arose and said grace. His invocation lasted five minutes and—though he can't be blamed, for they were hungry—the boys grew impatient. "Amen!" and "Let her go, Gallagher!" were pronounced at the same instant. The amen came in a deep voice from the preacher, while the other, but perhaps equally as heartfelt expression, was uttered by a "kid" who had been too busy too busy to pay much attention to the grace. For a few moments nothing but the sound of mastication could be heard—that was loud enough to be heard a block—but even boys can't eat forever without talking.

"Say, Jimmy," said one, "let's git out of dis. Dere's a bloke wot's goin' to preach, an' de circus is outside." Several acted on this hint, and went out to watch the men put up the tents as soon as their stomachs had been sufficiently filled with shortcake and ice-cream. After the physical boy had been attended to, the mission turned its attention to the spiritual boy. Remarks were made by the Rev. Dr. Wetherell, Capt. Paxton, the Rev. Dr. Little, and the Rev. Dr. Post. Recitations were given by little Harry Dodson and Eva Christian, and Mrs. Abbie Carrington sang. The circus bad boy was there, though, and as he saw about the middle of the entertainment that nothing else but spiritual food was to be given him he thought he would live up to the proceedings. This, in one instance, he did by going into the aisle and fighting—there were two of him this time. The fight wasn't in strict accord with the rules, but it was just as earnest. Whack! came Officer Dewey's black whip, and the circus bad boy stopped fighting. In another part of the room he was devising other means of fun. Sometimes it would take the form of swearing weird circus oaths into the ear of the mission good boy, or pulling the hair of the prize girl in white calico. The circus bad boy couldn't be put out, however—there were too many of him. In vain did Superintendent Daniels try to restore order. In vain did the speakers try to make themselves heard. The strawberry shortcake had given the circus bad boy a sort of mental indigestion. He couldn't find room for preachments. If he was going to be preached at, at least he wouldn't submit without a violent protest. He entered the protest, and though it was often overruled by the whips, yet he was happy. He had done his best to create a disturbance and he went away satisfied. It must be by no means implied that all the boys participated in the disorder; the majority of them were quiet and well-behaved.

The tramps belong to the genus Lophyrus obeliscus. This may at first appear strange, but when you come to consider that the L. a. is the fr saw fly, and that the tramp flies from the saw as far as possible, the whole thing seems perfectly clear.

HYDE PARK!

Look where you will in the vicinity of the city of Los Angeles, in search either of lots or acre property, for charming homes, and the best judgments will be convinced at a glance as to the difficulty of finding a location for a town so beautiful, so pure and bracing air, and smooth, rich lands as characterizes Hyde Park. This splendid townsite is located on the line of the California Central of the A., T. & S. F. system, which is to connect Los Angeles with the new harbor at La Ballona, and is distant 7½ miles from the center of the city; a midway town between the city and the harbor. Trains are to be running through the tract by July next, when great business activity all along the line will be the order of the day. Liberal-sized lots, 50x150 feet, fronting on sixty-foot avenues, are offered and being taken rapidly at $100 each; $40 cash, balance $10 per month, without interest. Such terms give the present purchasers a good opportunity to make money in the rising value that must follow the effects of the harbor and railroad developments. Particularly desirable are the 5 and 10 acre villa lots surrounding the town. Conveyances leave the office at 1:30 p.m., to show parties the beautiful property.

THE PREACHERS.

REV. C. W. HEISLER DISCOURSES
ON "THE ASCENDED LORD."Elder T. D. Garvin, of San Francisco, at the Christian Church—Prof.
Hanna is the Pulpit of the First Congregational.

Rev. D. W. Hanna, of the Los Angeles College, filled the pulpit of the First Congregational Church for the morning service. The text was from Jeremiah v. 22: "Fear ye not Me, saith the Lord. Will ye not tremble at My presence, which have placed the sand for a bound of the sea, by a perpetual decree that it cannot pass it?"

The same spirit that led the Jews to forsake God, notwithstanding His miraculous care of them in bringing them out of Egypt, is in these days, producing the same results. People do not fear God, though His presence and works are as manifest today as they were in the days of Moses.

The cause of this is the inherent desire of man to have his own way. In the fall there was imparted as a new birth. The old which impelled Satan to rebel against God's authority in heaven—to prefer to rule in hell than to serve in heaven.

Such rebellion is as foolish in man as it was in Satan, for though he may toss and fret, and raise his puny arms to strike against God's power, still God holds him, and his existence even as He restrains the sea, by what we may call a rope of sand.

One may, by prudence and care, have a well-preserved body, full of health and vigor, yet the scratch of a pin, the slip of a foot, the displacement of a railroad switch, a flaw in the harness of the horse he drives—little things—ropes of sand—may yet, under God's direction, bound his existence.

Man has, however, made a mistake in this matter. It is not a question as to whether we will serve or not, but as to whom we will serve. We must serve, even as we must be willing to sacrifice in many things self, that we may live happily in our homes, or even in society. Thus, God-service is well described as a new birth. The old innate desire to rule must be brought into submission to the behests of a loving Master. Christ must be our all in all.

They who, cajoled by Satan's plausible words that those who serve him are free to enjoy the world, find ever in the end that they become the very slaves. Those who live simply to gratify self with the enjoyment of this life, find, in the end, they come under the domination and rule of the devil.

To be truly free is to be the servants of God. God-service is a loving service; nay, more, it is an elevating service and adds life, strength and happiness. The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

A father who labors day and night to support a loving and loved family cannot in any way be called a slave; such service is the fulfillment of our duty as men.

All men fear God. The history of idolatry is the history of the propitiation of offended deities. Penances, mortifications of body and mind, all sorts of things, even the most looked on God, simply as a punisher of sin, says, "I hated Him," but as the justifier of the sinner through faith He made him a new man and brought him in the very paradise of God.

So modern opposition to the truths of the Bible comes from the same fear and to quiet an unrestful conscience. All should seek after the loving fear which John describes as casting out fear, for he that feareth is not made perfect in love.

GOSPEL TEMPERANCE.

Some Radical Speeches at Armory Hall Yesterday.

Temperance meetings have been held at 3 or 4 o'clock p.m. for several Sundays past. No notice was given of one for yesterday in any of the daily papers, nor on the street, and it required a long and assiduous search on the part of a Times reporter to find out whether there was to be a meeting yesterday and at what hour it was to be held.

At 4 o'clock quite a fair audience had assembled at Armory Hall for the gospel temperance meeting. Mrs. Burch presided at the piano, and by her finished execution, rendered the opening musical exercises very pleasant, though books on the seats seemed few and far between.

After scripture-reading and prayer Mr. Cohenor was called upon for an address, which lasted something over half an hour. In the course of his remarks the gentleman said that he believed in practical faith on this subject; statistics were dry reading, and dryer talking; temperance work has heretofore been too much along the line of saving form, or attempting to do so by persuasion, and the prohibition, and the use of liquor had increased. After this he went to this man for the $100,000, and when asked why he wanted it, he told the party of this conversation. The money was refused, and he told the man he was contemptible, and went on to show it to him. These were the men who opposed prohibition.

Men say that prohibition does not prohibit, but they are the very ones who are trying to defeat it. While working for prohibition in the Illinois Legislature, he met a man who told him that the opponents of that measure had $100,000 in bank to defeat it. Afterward he met the same man, who told him that prohibition was a failure, because wherever it had been tried, the sales of liquor had increased. After this he went to this man for the $100,000, and when asked why he wanted it, he told the party of this conversation. The money was refused, and he told the man he was contemptible, and went on to show it to him. These were the men who opposed prohibition.

Men have wrong ideas of what temperance is. Some have an idea that they can drink moderately, and when asked, "It is not true," the Bible says: "Thou shalt not kill, nor steal, nor lie," and it does not mean that a man may kill, or steal, or lie moderately, and it is the same with the use of liquor.

The speaker did not believe that a man who used liquor in any degree had any temperance principles at all—nothing but mere sentiments.

He then proceeded to say that any man who threw mud at saloon-keepers was out of place, and had better go home. They were no more to blame than those who licensed them. He detested the men who gave the licenses more than the men who received them.

No man had any rights—personal rights—when the exercise of such supposed rights injured his neighbors, and on this ground, the liquor traffic should be prohibited.

Mr. Adams, being called upon, said that he was present only to fill up, and could say nothing to add to what had already been said. Had he been called upon first, so as to have the best wine at the close of the feast, he might have said something. He then proceeded with quite a speech, in the course of which he announced his religious and political standing on the question, and went in for prohibition red hot. He thought the Woman's Christian Temperance Union should substitute the word prohibition for temperance in its title.

Mrs. Dr. Chubb then made some remarks on the prevalence of the drinking habit among the foreign population. She very strongly condemned the position of the press generally on the subject. Her speech was quite enthusiastic, and when she came to the place where she spoke of papers advocating high license, she exclaimed, "Oh, I don't see how they can do it!" and for want of language to do the subject justice, she sat down.

A vocal duet, "Let the Savior In," was rendered by the Misses Stone, a collection was taken, and at 5:30 o'clock the meeting was dismissed.

The First English Lutheran Church. The first English Lutheran Church was organized in this city on the 2d of last January. It now numbers fifty members, who worship in the McDonald block, on Main street. The society has purchased a $5000 lot on Flower street for a future building.

Yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. C.

W. Heister, preached on the subject: "The Ascended Lord." I Peter, III, 22: "Who is gone into heaven, and is on the right hand of God; angels and superior powers being made subject unto him."

The relative pronoun "who" in this text refers to Christ Jesus, mentioned in the preceding verse. The apostle had been exhorting Christians to endure suffering patiently for well-doing. To stimulate and encourage them he adduces the example of Christ, who "suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the spirit. The mention of the spirit leads to another illustration as to how Christ by His spirit went and preached to the lost spirits in prison of Noah's time. The deliverance of Noah is in the apostle's mind typical of the water of baptism through which, by the spirit's power, we are delivered from sin, and all this by, or because of, the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, who is gone into heaven, and is on the right hand of God.

We have recently been following the history of our Lord in those last stirring events of His life. The season of Lent, Palm Sunday, Good Friday and Easter have been bringing him before us in those profoundly significant events of His closing career. It now remains for us to consider the closing act in the earthly history of our Redeemer. We direct your attention today, therefore, to the ascended Lord.

The circumstances attending the act of the ascension are familiar to all. Forty days have elapsed since the Savior has made His self-moved return from the grave. In that interval he had frequently appeared to His disciples, manifesting himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs. Yet the old intercourse between them and by his death, forever terminated. His interviews with them were attended by wonderful disclosures, which set the disciples' minds at perfect rest as to the absolute reality of His resurrection from the dead. The forty days have expired, and the Savior leads his disciples out to Mt. Olivet, toward Bethany, the same place which, some weeks before, had witnessed his agony when he had bedewed his soil with his tears, and his blood was now to witness the glory of his ascension to heaven. Arrived at Olivet, he talks with them, and, while he talked with them, he was taken up and a cloud received him out of their sight. That dear form, which their perverted, carnal notions still hampered by the restrictions of the earthly, begins to rise slowly before them. Earth's laws have no power to keep him down, for here is the Lord of Earth asserting His supremacy over all its laws and forces. How their eyes are riveted upon him! How their ears are strained to catch the last words that fall from His blessed lips. But still higher and higher He ascends.

His hands are still outstretched in blessing upon them. His lips still breathe benedictions, until the heavenly gates on high are lifted and the King of glory, entering in, is seated at the right hand of the Majesty on High. Is it any wonder, after this experience, that the disciples returned to Jerusalem with great joy?

A study of God's plan of redemption readily discloses the necessity of our Lord's ascension. It was necessary from the nature of His resurrection body. Christ Jesus was the same human divine being after as before His resurrection. He was the same and yet not the same. The resurrection and ascension added nothing to His divine nature. That was infinitely perfect. But before His resurrection His human nature was material, and hence subject to the restrictions and limitations of the material. His death and resurrection changed that. The human nature remained, but it was glorified and freed from the restrictions that still oppress us. His manner of life, and mysterious appearances and disappearances to His disciples during those forty days, show this plainly. Earth was no longer, therefore, a fit abode for the Son of Man, and the ascension to heaven was necessary, where the earthly, the material, is unknown. It was necessary, also, as the crown and completion of His redemption work. There are two aspects of Christ's mediatorial work—the earthly and the heavenly—or that which he wrought upon in His incarnation. His life, His passion, death, resurrection and ascension, which He did, which He accomplishes in heaven for us by the application of His redemption to us personally, and His active intercession at the right hand of God for us. The ascension terminates Christ's mediatorial work on earth, and earthly, seated Him on His eternal throne as our High Priest, and secures the application to men, through the Holy Spirit, of the redemption purchased by His blood.

His head, as we saw, is now at the right hand of God, angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto Him. "Therefore, let all the house of Israel know assuredly that God hath made that Jesus whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ." He thundered Peter in the ears of the Lord's murderers in his wonderful Pentecostal sermon. The right hand of a sovereign is the place of favor and power, and the whole text denotes the elevation of the God-man, the divine-human Jesus, to the full power, majesty and glory of God Almighty. Thus Jesus is the Man of Sorrows no longer. He is now seated on His throne, crowned with glory now, and before that form, which the rabble and the soldiers scoffed at, spit on, struck with insulting blows, scourged and crucified, angel and cherubim, and seraphim now bow in adoring homage.

In conclusion, let us bear in mind these great truths:

First—That Jesus Christ has truly gone into heaven. That is the simple fact of the ascension.

Second—That He is there seated on a throne of power and glory. We must get away from the idea that Christ is only a crucified outcast. He was that once, thank God, but glory to God! He is that no longer. Now He is on a throne and reigns supreme, as our Almighty and eternal King. Seated on that throne He applies to us the fruits of His redemption, and ever lives above for us to intercede. He is in the presence of God for us as our Great High Priest and Advocate. Infinitely exalted as He is, He is worthy of our highest worship and most ardent love.

Third—That He has taken with Him on His throne our human nature. At His ascension His human nature was exalted to all the honor, power and glory which were always His as God. How it exalts and dignifies our humanity to catch this truth!

Fourth—That Jesus hath ascended to prepare a place for His people. In my Father's house are many mansions; I go to prepare a place for you," are His own words.

Fifth—We need to keep in mind this same Jesus who is gone into heaven shall come in like manner, as His disciples saw Him enter heaven. We want to be ready for Him at His coming.

Christian Church.

Elder T. D. Garvin, of San Francisco, preached at the Christian Church, on Temple street, yesterday morning on the subject, "What Is the Church?" A good congregation was assembled, and were much occupied with the words and effective delivery of the discourse. The sermon was, in substance, as follows:

Our theme is the Church of Christ and the estimate that is put upon it. A large share of the misdeeds committed have been through carelessness rather than through intention.

The preacher dwelt upon the easy indifference of the mass of people, who felt they were living as correctly as their neighbor, and thus self-deceived they went on in their sad and lost condition.

All things created by God were conceded to be competent to perform the work to the end to which they were intended. Is the church competent to perform the work intended? It is, with the cooperation of the many members of this great body. The speaker spoke of the dilatory support of many members of this body. He defined the Church of God as a body of men and women who gladly heard the Word of God, recognized Jesus Christ as its head, and sought to do His commandments. He illustrated the value of the church by the sacrifice of a man who kept his mind purified and cleansed. Bought with His life, it ought to be recognized as a thing of great value. By the sacrifice the church was to be presented to God as an holy and acceptable offering.

God commended His love to the people, a love not measured by any good possessed by them. God did not attempt to buy souls with money.

I have often wondered why men could not buy salvation with money. They buy everything else with money. I have seen in San Francisco what money would buy. I have seen, the men who kept four-rate doggeries strike forty millions in mines and then buy their way into the highest society, and now a Mackay, yes, a Mackay, hobnob with the Prince of Wales. Money will pave the way to society. Sarah Bernhardt will come here to Los Angeles and you Christians will pay $5 a ticket to see her, when she has a character so vile that respectable people ought not to look upon her. But her money and bad fame have bought her the character which she is lacking.

Will Vanderbilt with $300,000,000 dare to approach the gates of the great city and hold up his money to buy admittance, with that long tale of sorrow, treachery, robbery and crime which follows the record of the time in which that immense wealth had been collected? No. Wealth will not buy a membership in the church of God.

Man was being needing the love of Christ to save him from the result of sin. A suicide was the act of a man who came to the belief that no one thought of him or loved him. Christ loved all sinners, if they would but listen to His word. "I ask you brother and sister, what are you doing, if you are staying outside of the church? You are hindering the church. If you would join the church, you would fit out the Bible, and with that gone, all truth would be blasted from the face of the earth. Then, brother and sister, you are helping to blot out the church by your refusal to hear the calling of Christ and to enter into the fold. Don't stand in the way of such a mighty power of good, but join us in helping to bring sinners to salvation."

The pastor closed with an exhortation to the seekers of truth to take advantage of the opportunity and join the church of the living God. The sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered to the members of the church.

THE Streeter Tobacco Bill, which prohibits the selling of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes to minors, has passed the Illinois Senate, and is now on order of second reading in the House. There is no opposition to the bill, but members do not seem to realize that it is of any importance. If it should go into effect, it will work out another important factor in the social experiment.

DISCUSSING the recent verdict in the Fitch-De Young libel case, the San Francisco Examiner is sorely tried to tell whether Fitch had only a dollar's worth of reputation to damage, or that De Young was capable of doing only a dollar's worth of harm under any circumstances. The suit has probably cost the litigants a cool $25,000 apiece, and the lawyers and court hangers-on are the beneficiaries.

THE Sacramento Bee says: "The northern district of the State is the richest. As people ascertain this truth the great undeveloped region of Central and Northern California will attract the thousands who now flutter about the torch that marks Los Angeles as the true California." Which is extremely good. But where is that torch? And what is the torch marking things for and why does it mark Los Angeles as the true California? All of these things the Bee is invited to explain before it capes over the cells of its last comb.

More Municipal System Needed.

We fear that Los Angeles is making a mistake by drifting along into metropolitanism in a haphazard way. Our City Fathers should not wait for a process of growth out of the methods in vogue when Los Angeles was a provincial town, but should rather anticipate the future by inquiring into and adopting the most approved systems of the largest cities. For example, how little are we doing in the way of regulating and systematizing the building of houses! THE TIMES has hitherto called attention to the utility of establishing an officer to look after this matter, and this alone. Most well-regulated cities have a Commissioner of Buildings, whose duty it is to pass upon every application for a building permit, and to issue the permit when it comes within proper regulations, keeping a record of the same. This record would be very valuable, inasmuch as it would be complete and authentic, and, at the end of the year, we could tell within a few thousand dollars the value of the year's improvements.

At present about the only work performed in this line is undertaken by the Chief of the Fire Department. We would not say that he fails to discharge his duty faithfully, but his efforts go no farther than to see that the fire limit ordinance is not infringed. He keeps no record, and issues no permits.

An important part of the duties of a Building Commissioner, also, is to keep a watchful eye on buildings in construction, and see that they are safely built. He has an oversight of all buildings, in fact, new and old, and if there is a rookery, a half-burned building, a dead wall, which is a nuisance or a menace to life or limb, he orders it torn down. What a sweep such an officer, if efficient, could make in a tour through Chinatown and Sonoratown. We venture the opinion that, if every adobe hovel on Upper Main street were condemned (as it would certainly be in some cities) and torn down, property on that thoroughfare would enhance 300 per cent. within the next year.

Some cities go beyond the Commissioner of Buildings in their classification, and have chiefs for the several departments coming under his notice. We notice that Kansas City has just arranged for an inspector of plumbing. In the ordinance regulating this matter provision is made for determining the ability of a man or a firm to carry on the plumbing business properly before he can receive a license. Every plumbing establishment also is required to file a bond to keep with the City Comptroller a sum not less than $50, to be used in repairing any injury to street, alley or sidewalk which the plumber himself does not repair satisfactorily within twenty-four hours after having received notification from the Superintendent of Buildings or his inspector. The ordinance further provides that every plumber before doing any work on any building, except in case of repairs, shall file with the Superintendent of Buildings a plan showing the size and location of all soil and ventilation pipes, and the location of all fixtures in the building. This practically places the plumbing of every new house in the city under the supervision of a city official, who is supposed to be competent to decide upon the merits or demerits of the plans and appliances. Connection of the plumbing with a sewer is required whenever possible, and, in cases where there is no sewer at hand, a stone or brick and cemented cesspool, of size and construction approved by the Superintendent of Buildings, must be provided. All pipes and fixtures, after they are in place, must be examined by the Inspector of Plumbing, and they shall not be concealed from view until submitted to his examination. If he finds any defects, the Superintendent of Buildings is authorized to demand that the work shall be done over again. Suitable penalties in the shape of fines and forfeiture of license are provided for violations of the ordinance.

It is believed that this law, rigidly enforced, will accomplish great reforms in plumbing work, and will eventually redound to the good health of the city.

There are other municipal departments which might be specially looked after by an officer appointed for the purpose, and it is time for Los Angeles to rub her eyes and take a good look to see what she is likely to need in this respect. Let the city grow systematically, and it is sure to grow well.

An Appreciative View.

The Mining and Industrial Advocate of San Francisco, whose editor, E. G. Waite, paid a visit to this section some time ago, contains the following editorial view of the Southern California boom, which, we are bound to say, is one of the most candid and appreciative acknowledgments which has thus far appeared in the northern press. Under the heading "Let Us Wake Up," Editor Waite says:

Something besides soil and climate has given to Southern California its abnormal development. Both climate and soil that choice garden spot of earth was known to possess long before the influx of Americans, and for a quarter of a century after their coming the virtues of the section had been thoroughly made known, and yet it remained in an undeveloped state. The secret—but it is no secret—of the rapid growth of the country having the City of Angels for its center is a rare combination of men of energy, foresight and courage. A drowsy-headed set might have had the same advantages, and not profited by them, and Los Angeles and the surrounding country might have remained for years as in the past, when the sleepy class possessed the land and kept it unimproved and unsettled.

The dash and enterprise of these boomers in the South are catching to all around them. It even warms the spirit of the people up this way to a certain extent. But there is a difference. It is not all "chin music," down there. The leaders put their money in, and invite others to follow, while the reverse is the rule in some other parts of the State. There they put their shoulders to the wheel and pay in blood; here it is mostly prayer and little shoulder.

A sample of the way business is done in Southern California may be seen in the building of the town of Monrovia, distant fifteen miles from Los Angeles, eastward, at the base of the Sierra Madre. A few months ago the site was all brush and brambles. The promoters of the place do not simply beg others to build the town. They go out themselves, build stock pens, and more than a dozen prominent men erect residences for themselves to cost $5000, $10,000, $15,000 and $20,000 each. Confidence is thus established in the town at once, and fifteen miles from Los Angeles, eastward, $3000. Such men as E. F. Spence, late Mayor of Los Angeles, Studebaker, of wagon fame, Gov. Stoneman, Senator Ferry of Michigan, and dozens of other well-known names have invested in Monrovia, and are pushing its interests.

Other towns, such as Pasadena, Orange, Ontario, Azusa, Covina, Tustin City and the like, are growing up around Los Angeles, and are bound to be places of importance and feeders to the central city. No such progress has been made in the same length of time anywhere on the continent, and it is worth little a year ago are worth today $3000. The northern part of California is better watered than the southern, the rainfall decreasing as you go southward, but nearly twice as large in the San Joaquin Valley, to show the decrease of rainfall in more southern latitudes, is not a fair one, because it does not hold in like ratio all through. On the contrary, the tendency is reversed. The rainfall tapers like an hour-glass, the small average being in the San Joaquin Valley. There is more rainfall in the southern counties than in the middle. As to the greater variety of products in the northern counties, that, too, is a myth! They grow some things ornamentally which we grow practically, and vice versa. Honors are about even, so far as that goes.

Speaking on general principles, however, we believe that the boom which has obtained such a foothold in Southern California is going to spread all over the State. Northern California is a good country—a country that merits the most unbounded prosperity, and it needs only an influx of new people, an infusion of new blood to set it pulsing with life.

The Railway Boom in Prospect.

All indications point to the current year as a most phenomenal one in railway building in the United States. The first three months of the year saw the laying of upwards of a thousand miles of new track, which, of itself, is unprecedented.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce publishes a statement in which it claims that the new track to be laid in 1887 will aggregate 21,347 miles, or nearly twice the amount ever laid in any former year. In addition it is stated that 18,854 miles of old track will be relaid with new steel rails, the old rails being worn out and useless.

The paper referred to says: "The greatest number of miles of new railway ever built in this country in any one year was in 1883, when 15,986 miles were added to the railway mileage. Every one remembers that 1883 was a remarkably busy year. If that exceptionally large amount of railway mileage is to be nearly doubled this year, when an equal amount of old track is to be relaid, it is easy to see that the rail-making capacity of the country is to be strained to its utmost limit. When the old and new railways are run to their utmost capacity all other industries must of necessity sympathize, making the outlook for the greatest business year the country has ever known unusually bright."

It will likewise take a big pile of money to build upwards of twenty thousand miles of new road and relay nearly as much more. Not less than $600,000,000 will be required to accomplish it, and in view of the large investments in mining and manufacturing enterprises that are now being made it will be easier to want that large sum than to get it in one year.

But assuming that these calculations have been made to be divided by two, or in other words that the work suggested takes two years instead of one, the foundation for an unusually prosperous year will still remain. From any point of view the outlook for the coming year is bright, and present and probably for the ensuing year is first-class.

BEGGARS are not over numerous in Los Angeles, but the sight of boot-blacks soliciting alms is almost exclusively a characteristic of this city. It is generally the rule that boot-blacks and newsboys are an industrious crowd of urchins, who earn their living, and often a good surplus. There are two or three professional mendicants in this occupation here, however, who are a disgrace to their fraternity. Their tale of hunger and distress seems to bring them in more dimes than working at their trade, unless the box slung over their shoulder is a sham. A number were out last night, annoying passers-by by following them with lugubrious stories about their destitute condition. Let the boys "shine 'em up," and they will prosper.

Arrested for Selling Whisky to Indians.

Four Days of Fasting Causes Him to Throw Up His Hands.

Precautions Taken to Save the Prisoner from Lynching.

Stanislaus Farmers Thoroughly Aroused on the Irrigation Question—A Father Accidentally Kills His Son Near Stockton—The Land Boom at Anaheim.

By Telegraph to The Times.

CHICO, May 22.—[By the Associated Press.] Hong Di, the murderer of Mrs. Billiou, at St. Johns, Colusa county, was captured today about four miles from Gridley, in a wheat field, by A. L. Schubert, of this city. Mr. Schubert saw the Chinaman running along in the wheat field, and, suspecting who it was, jumped from his wagon and gave chase. After a short space, the Chinaman threw up his hands and stopped. Mr. Schubert tied Hong Di's hands, put him into his wagon and brought him to the place. He was then taken to Oroville, Di acknowledged his identity and has all the marks advertised. He says he didn't mean to kill Mrs. Billiou, but she got in front of the gun when he aimed at Weaver, who had threatened to kill him before Mr. Billiou returned, and who, he feared, would carry out his threat.

While in town he was badly scared, and though in a covered wagon, kept a blanket over himself all the time. He had been without food for four days, and when food was given him he ate ravenously. His capture was kept secret for two hours, in order to give his captors time to get to Oroville, so that he would not be followed and lynched.

THE IRRIGATION QUESTION.

The Sturdy Farmers of Stanislaus Vigorously Tackle It.

MODESTO, May 22.—[By the Associated Press.] A meeting of the friends of irrigation at Turlock, in this county, was held yesterday, the object being the nomination of officers for the district. Davies; treasurer, C. N. Whitmore. The meeting was addressed by Hon. C. C. Wright and Hon. George W. Shafter. The nomination of a division director was postponed till Tuesday, the 24th. The election on the question of creating an irrigating district as well as for officers of the same takes place on Saturday, the 28th inst.

Hickman, owning 15,000 acres in the proposed district; E. V. Cogswell, with 6000; Robert Dallas and J. B. Brickman, both owning large tracts of thousands of acres each. John Mitchell, owning 50,000 acres, was seen moving about the room among the friends of irrigation, speaking confidently of success.

ANAHEIM.

The Railway and Real Estate Boom at Its Height.

ANAHEIM, May 22.—[By the Associated Press.] The extension of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system of railroad into this section is being made with great rapidity. Grading on the branch from San Bernardino, via Riverside and Santa Ana cañon to San Diego, has been completed to within two miles of Orange, and a large force is now engaged at that point. The surveys have been completed for the San Diego and Los Angeles branch. Depot grounds have been selected in this town and a right of way granted through one of the principal streets for tracks.

The approach of these roads has caused a great influx of land speculators, resulting in large transfers of real estate. The sales of last week aggregated $300,000. A syndicate known as the Pacific Land and Improvement Company, controlled by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad officials has laid out two new towns, each of 1600 acres. James, four miles east of Anaheim, on the line of the San Bernardino and San Diego road, and the other called Buena Park, on the San Diego and Los Angeles branch, six miles west of Anaheim.

KILLED HIS SON.

A Father Makes a Fatal Blunder While Gunning.

STOCKTON, May 22.—[By the Associated Press.] A farmer named Gibson, living on the upper division of Roberts's landing, shot and killed his 13-year-old son, Desmond, last night, mistaking him for a coon in high grain. Gibson had killed a dove that dropped in the grain, and, seeing an object moving toward the bird, supposed it to be a coon, there being many about the place. He fired his second barrel. The boy had been hiding in the grain, and his father knew nothing of his presence, supposing him to be at the house. The charge entered the boy's breast and he died two hours after receiving it. The father is heartbroken.

Caught a Whale.

SANTA CRUZ, May 22.—Yesterday as G. B. Barlow, proprietor of the Pescadero stage line, was coming down from Pescadero, he discovered a large sperm whale drifting in at the mouth of the San Vincente creek, twelve miles from Santa Cruz. It soon was stranded on the beach. Mr. Barlow hastened to Santa Cruz, and procuring the services of J. B. Davenport, who owned tackle and other necessary implements for whaling, they repaired to San Vincente about 5 o'clock this morning and secured the whale. It is about forty feet long, and they expect to realize at least thirty barrels of oil from the monster.

Killed His Creditor.

PHOENIX (Ariz.), May 22.—Henry Schlosser, a German, living on a ranch six miles from town, killed a Mexican this morning, about 8 o'clock, named Anado Perez. Perez sued Schlosser for wages and recovered a judgment yesterday. Two companions of Perez say that Schlosser told Perez to come to his house this morning and he would settle. Perez did so and Schlosser killed him. Schlosser has been arrested.

Feathered Pests.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, May 22.—O f swarms of black birds have appeared in the county and are creating considerable damage in the grain fields. In some sections depredations are so severe that the farmers find it necessary to employ hunters to guard the fields.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 22.—[By the Associated Press.] Southern cherries were a little slow yesterday. Some 34-quart cases were quotable at $1.50 to $2.75, according to quality and condition. When common they could hardly be sold at all. Southern white sweets were slow at $1.50 for half cases, or cases of 13-quarts. They were mainly a little speckled and some may have to be closed out for less than quotation prices. Only fancy fruit-dealers use sweet cherries, and they prefer California, which are very nice. The latter were also easier, owing to larger supply. Boxes of 10 pounds sold at $2.35 to $2.50 for black tartarians and $2.50 to $3 for white sweets. The demand is improving for lemons owing to warmer weather. The market is steady and quotable at $3.40 per box, according to quality. Oranges are easy for common and steady for choice. The supply is ample, and choice meet with moderate demand. The following are the quotations for California: Bright Riverside, good to fancy, $3.04; San Bernardino, $3.04; Santa Ana, $2.75; St. Michael, paper fruit, $3.04; Los Angeles, $2.50; Los Angeles, $2.50; Orange, $2.50; Valencia, $2.50; blood oranges, fancy, $4.00; culls, $2.

She has played before the crowned heads of several important countries of Europe, including the Emperor Wilhelm, the Czar, and numerous lesser dignitaries. And as evidences of their appreciation of her abilities as an actress, she received many valuable presents in the way of diamond jewelry and other precious stones, some of which is worn upon the stage in the different dramas presented by her. The play tonight will be the story of a faithless husband and a true, forgiving wife, and in it occur many strong passages and dramatic situations.

Drunk but Game.

A gentleman who was passing the police station shortly after 12 o'clock last night informed the officers on duty that a bloody fight was in progress on the corner of Fort and Second streets. Officers Dalton and Reel rushed up to the corner and found two men with their coats off going for each other hammer and tongs. They were so drunk that they could hardly stand up, but they were making a good fight. At the police station they gave their names as T. Gibson and Lawrence Dillon.

Another Denial from Rome in Regard to the Alleged Irish Memoir—Terrible Effects of the Recent Great Gale on the English Coast.

By Telegraph to The Times.

PARIS, May 22.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] An election was held today for Deputy for the Seine. Mr. Messourier received 198,307 votes, and Gen. Boulanger 33,088.

It is semi-officially stated that M. Rouviere declined to form a Cabinet, but at President Grévy's request, undertook to discover what combination was possible. With this in view he consulted the leaders, including M. de Freycinet, Jullian, Fallieres, Spuller, Noguet and Delandier. A dynamite-cartridge exploded in the Hotel du Commerce, at St. Louvre, today, injuring a colonel and a doctor, and doing much damage to property.

OTHER FOREIGN NEWS.

Another Repudiation of the Alleged Irish Memoir at Rome.

LONDON, May 22.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] A telegram from Rome says: "A summary of the so-called memoir on the Irish question has reached Rome. A second inquiry at the Irish college elicited another indignant denial of any knowledge of such a document, which is declared to be a malicious and stupid invention, devoid of the least probability. The glaring absurdity of the alleged memoir and the ignorance it displays are evident to every one who considers the nature and origin of the Irish college. Therefore the opinion is general that it could not have come from Rome. An outrage such as this can only occur in a condition of affairs when men lose their honor and journals sacrifice decency in order to accomplish party ends. The prospect must be hopeless indeed when recourse is had to such criminal and unworthy means."

The Britannic Almost Sunk—Several Passengers Killed.

The Celtic Disabled—Both Vessels Towed to New York—C. P. Huntington a Passenger on the Britannic—His Story of the Affair.

By Telegram to The Times.

NEW YORK, May 22.—[By the Associated Press.] On Thursday, May 19th, at 5:25 p.m., while the weather was calm and the sea smooth, the British steamship Celtic of the White Star Line, from Liverpool, came into collision with the British steamship Britannic, of the same line, from New York for Liverpool, striking her on the port-side aft, and doing considerable damage. The Britannic's bows were lowered, and were filled with women and children from the cabin and steerage in an orderly and expeditious manner. It is to their shame that several men forced themselves into the boats. Meanwhile an examination was made, and the damage to the Britannic was ascertained, and it being found that the vessel was not likely to founder, such boats as were within hail were recalled and their occupants received on board. Others had boarded the Celtic. A pad was made and placed over the hole in the Britannic's side and she was turned about for the purpose of being ranged with the Celtic to keep company. The saddest and most deplorable result of the accident is that several steerage passengers, who were lounging about at the time of the collision, were killed, and several others were injured. Both vessels, accompanied by the steamship Marengo (British), from Swansea, for New York, and British Queen (British) from Liverpool for New York, arrived at the bar at 1 o'clock this morning.

The above report is from the pursuer of the Britannic, who refused any further information. Some steerage passengers from the Britannic are stopping at the Miners' Arms Hotel, at No. 2 Front street. Both steamships are anchored off the bar, being detained by fog. The Celtic's bow is stove in, but otherwise the vessel is not much damaged. The Britannic's compartment is full of water. She will reach her dock in this city about 8:30 p.m. One report says that a man and three women were killed, and another says that the Celtic lost one woman and one child, aged 15, and five men.

C. P. HUNTINGTON'S NARRATIVE. Among the Britannic's passengers was C. P. Huntington, the railroad magnate. Fay Templeton, the actress, was said to be among the Celtic's passengers. Mr. Huntington had closed his house for the summer, and along with his family intended to take an excursion to Europe, which he never visited, "and I didn't get there after all," said he, laughingly, to a Tribune reporter this afternoon. He was looking strong and well.

He said: "The bowsprit of the Celtic came right on board the Britannic, and cut through nearly to the middle of our ship, and probably would have cut quite to the middle but for the fact that we were going somewhat rapidly, and tore the Celtic's cut-water right away. I think that is what saved us. The Britannic was struck on the water-light compartment at the stern. The pulwarks were cut right off for fifty feet. The Celtic tore her way right along. To my knowledge there were four people killed. One was a girl about 12 or 14 years old, and there were three others, two men, I think, and one a boy, but I would not be certain about that. The oldest man's wife was on board. Several others were injured. Dr. McLaughlin, the ship's surgeon, remained on board, and collected, and attended to those who were hurt."

TURNVEREIN HALL.

A Souvenir Picture Taken—Demolition at Hand.

Yesterday morning the members of the Turnverein Society met at their old hall and arranged themselves fifty strong in front of the building, while Mr. Golsh, the photographer, took a picture of them. This was done because the workmen will go to tearing the old hall down today to make room for a fine large one, and the society wished to have something by which to remember the old place where they have had so much fun.

In the evening they gave a farewell ball and entertainment. The following programme was carried out, after which dancing was indulged in: Overture by the Meise Bros. band, turning on the horizontal bar by the scholars of the society, Indian club swinging by C. Samann, exercises on the horizontal bar by active Turners, foil fencing by Dolman and Fuhberg, society exercises on the horse by active Turners, sword fencing by Dolman and Fuhberg, exercises on the high horse by active Turners, tumbling by active Turners.

This closed the exercises, and they danced until 12 o'clock, when the members of the society formed in procession, with J. Kuhlert, on a wheelbarrow, at the head. They marched around the room several times singing "Farewell, Old Hall," in German, and marched out. Each person in the procession carried some article belonging to the society. The money taken in at the door will be donated to the delegates who are to attend the San Diego Festival on the 4th of June. There were about 300 persons present, and they gave the old hall a rousing farewell.

SICKENING CRIME.

A Wretch Captured by Officer Arguello Saturday Night.

Late Saturday night Deputy Constable Arguello presented himself at the main entrance to the County Jail. He had in custody a wretch, who was bloody from head to foot. The officer gave the man's name as Charles Harrington, and locked him up, after charging him with having committed a crime against nature. The officer had been informed of Harrington's beastly practices, and he followed the wretch about town all evening. Finally the creature met a boy 10 or 12 years of age, and offered him $1 to go down to the river with him. The boy accepted the offer, and the two started off, with Arguello close on their heels. When they reached a vineyard, near First street, they climbed the fence, and in a few minutes the officer found them on them, and caught the man in the act. When Arguello attempted to place him under arrest, he fought with all his might, and had to be clubbed almost to death before he would give up. In the fight the boy escaped. The wretch will have a hearing before Justice Taney this morning.

EDITOR O'BRIEN.

His Friends Alarmed Over His Feeble Physical Condition.

NIAGARA FALLS (N. Y.), May 22.—[By the Associated Press.] Today a delegation from Rochester, headed by Dr. W. R. Casey, prominent in the National League, called upon Mr. O'Brien. From Buffalo there came Fr. Patrick Cronin, editor of the Catholic Union and Times, and James Mooney, ex-president of the Irish National League of America. Many visitors from Hamilton and other points called, headed by several well-known citizens and clergymen. Mr. O'Brien remained in his room all day.

O'Brien said to a correspondent that although he was greatly exhausted and scarcely able to speak above his breath, he was determined upon going to Hamilton tomorrow. His friends are alarmed at this decision, not because of their fear of another attack there, although such an attack is considered exceedingly probable, but because the mere journey itself and the effort of making another speech are likely to overpower him and imperil his life. It is said by some of his enthusiastic friends here that some of the members of the committee will be organized in Buffalo and will accompany him. Mr. O'Brien, however, does not approve of this, as he does not think there will be any need for such a party. His friends have a positive opinion to the contrary, but they will do nothing without his sanction. He goes from Hamilton to Montreal, where an open-air meeting will be held, and a torchlight procession organized to escort him through the principal streets of the city.

WASHINGTON.

How the Reform Administration Has Illustrated Its Principles in the Matter of Indian Trade-Shipments.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—[By the Associated Press.] Senator Platt, chairman of the Senate Select Committee, directed to investigate certain allegations with respect to appointments to Indian trade-ships, has returned from the West, whither the sub-committee went a fortnight ago to take testimony. Senators Collom and Blackburn, the other members of the sub-committee, left him at Kansas City for their homes. The witnesses were, for the most part, from the Indian Territory, and the testimony was taken at Arkansas City. The proceedings proved to be more absorbing in interest than was anticipated, and the committee was reluctantly compelled to content itself with an inquiry into a few simple cases, upon the results of which it will probably frame its report. The committee was unwilling to express himself, except in the most general terms, respecting the work of the committee, for the reason that the evidence is not all in. The complaints of the traders, who were cross-examined by Senator Blackburn, are to the effect that they were removed upon no substantial pretext except that they were Republicans, and that personal and political friends of people now in high authority were given their places. After explaining the losses these officials suffered and the fact that their removal often carried bankruptcy with it, under their peculiar situations as creditors of the Indians, Senator Platt said he thought the committee will unite in an opinion that the power of arbitrary interference in purely business affairs of private citizens, and of making or breaking the fortunes of worthy men, calls loudly for reform, and whatever may be the divergence of views respecting civil service reform, in general the Indian trade-ships ought not (as the evidence shows they were not under former administrations) to be disposed of as rewards of political service.

ABANDONED MILITARY RESERVATIONS.

Ex-Senator Van Wick has written a letter to the Secretary of the Interior, asking that the appointment of appraisers of the abandoned military reservations in Nebraska and Colorado, authorized under the act of 1884, be delayed until the next meeting of Congress.

He states that when Congress has adjourned an amendment to this act was upon the calendar and had the unanimous endorsement of the Committee on Public Land, the effect of which would have been, had it passed, to dispose of these lands to homesteaders instead of by sale, possibly to syndicates, under the present law. He has no doubt that the appraisal and sale will be delayed until Congress has another chance to amend the law.

Parnell's Style as an Orator.

(London Letter to the Providence Journal.) Ordinarily Mr. Parnell is a cool and somewhat halting speaker. There is an almost icy deliberateness and sobriety about his speech. When he gets angry his words come even more deliberately and with terrible emphasis. There is a suggestion of hissing in the manner in which he forces out his words, and his face is white with a passion that is partly suppressed and partly allowed its play. He is like a man struggling with a mettlesome horse, letting the animal to a certain extent ride away with him, but all the while he is holding a firm seat and maintaining a mastery of the rein and determined that he is to conquer in the end. Mr. Parnell never went so far as he did on that occasion in the repudiation of the Phoenix Park murders and the conspiracy against Mr. Forster.

The Hello Question.

Since the Inter Ocean spoke of the good fortune of that Kansas City girl who had lived sweetly through a telephone a dozen or twenty correspondents have noticed that hellos have been softened and much improved. Now, if something could be done to modulate the bass hellos of the other sex, reform would be in sight. An angel could not stand at telephone headquarters and keep temper and ear-drums in good order under the present regime.

Fire at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—A row of one-story frame houses on Market, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, was almost entirely destroyed by fire this morning. The cause was spontaneous combustion. Loss, $3000.

BRIEFS.

Council today.

The steamer Los Angeles sailed North yesterday.

The steamer Queen of the Pacific goes South today.

Officer Woodward picked up a lady's pocket-book on a street-car yesterday afternoon. It is at the police office.

Out on Bail.

Jerry Murry, or Murphy, the schooner-joint bartender, who assisted in beating Police Officer Kule up Saturday night, was allowed to leave his cell at the City Prison last night at 7 o'clock, after Mr. Zoberline, of the Philadelphia Brewery, had deposited for his appearance. This morning in Justice Austin's court. The other rioters are still in prison.

Several days ago a man named B. W. Holliday was employed by J. Rider, the photographer, to do soliciting in the country. Holliday was given a number of valuable samples and on his return to town he refused to deliver them, and Rider swore out a complaint charging him with embezzlement. The man was arrested by Officer Dillon yesterday afternoon and locked up.

Two men named Charles Watson and T. Smith put in an appearance at the police station yesterday evening. Smith wanted Watson locked up, as he said the man was wearing a coat of his which he said had been stolen from him several days ago. Watson denied that he had stolen the coat, and said he could prove by two or three men that he purchased it out of a store on Main street. He was locked up.

At the St. Elmo: C. E. Marsh and wife, Greeley, Colo.; J. D. Ketcham, Marysville; E. Davis, San Francisco; A. Davis, Anaheim; C. D. Upton, San Francisco; W. F. Ward, Colton; J. M. Menell, wife and child, Montana; G. A. Travis, San Francisco; G. F. Lyons, Mrs. Winston and child, Redlands; W. Goldham, San Luis Rey; A. L. Wood and wife, Riverside; H. S. Valantine, Wilmington; E. L. Sheridan, Ventura; L. Henry, Sacramento; G. H. Peck and wife, Santa Monica.

Easily Accommodated.

David Russell was pretty well "under the influence" yesterday afternoon on Main street. He sat down on a barrel in front of the St. Elmo Hotel, and when the barrel gave way and dumped him on the sidewalk he made no attempt to rise, but calmly went off into a gentle snooze. Officer Moffitt coming along thought the position too ornamental, and on getting the man up found a gun on him. He was accordingly locked up on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Lecture by John Shirley Ward.

A literary lecture by John Shirley Ward should call out a large audience. Those who remember the graces of rhetoric and charming imagery with which, in years ago, he clothed his political speeches, will want to hear him on a purely literary subject tomorrow evening, at the First Presbyterian Church. The lecture is given to aid the young people of that church to buy a piano for their social use and religious worship. Admission, 25c.

The Curse of Drink.

About 7 o'clock last evening a fairly well-dressed man went staggering up First street. When in front of the Times office he stumbled and fell headlong on the hard, stony ground, cutting his face in several places so that the blood flowed freely. He floundered on about half way up the hill, when, turning, he came back and crossed Fort street at a rapid gait, lost his balance and fell again, against the brick wall of a house. Some bystanders picked him up, but he was too drunk to tell his own name or where he lived, and was turned over to Officer Rogers. At the station he was booked as C. F. Whipple and locked up for the night.

Will No Longer Draw the Long Bow.

A link which bound modern Europe to the middle ages has just been severed at Ghent by the dissolution of the Ancient Guild of Crossbowmen in that city. It has existed since the eleventh century, but with ever-diminishing utility, since crossbows and long bows are no longer in fashion; and the society came lately to the conclusion that it had ceased to have any raison d'être. Its massive plate has all been sold, including a superb chased silver cup, presented to the association by the Archduke Albert and the Archduchess Isabella, which has now become the property of Baron Rothschild, at the price of $25,000 francs.

A Six-Million-Pounds Girl.

Mlle. Helene de Rothschild, only daughter of the late Baron Solomon of Paris, is possessed of an unenviable resolution, calls herself a spinster, and is a young officer in the Belgian army. The opposition of the lady's mother and other relatives will prevent a ceremony from taking place before August. Mlle. Helene already possesses an immense fortune and her dot will ultimately amount to $6,000,000, a sum which her future husband has only read of in romance. M. de Rothschild has purchased the splendid hotel of Baron Rothschild, near the Champs Elysees, as a future residence for herself and her husband.

Miss Carrie on Her Muscles.

(Hepner (Or.) Gazette.) Miss Carrie Dillon will teach the school up Ram Gulch this spring. Carrie is now developing her muscles with a pair of dumb bells, and proposes to subjugate old Tom Carter's freckle-faced boy if she has to break his back and horsewhip old Tom if he interferes.

Priestly Moonshiners.

The famous Chartreuse liquor is not made at the monastery of that name, but at a special manufactory several miles away, at the foot of the mountains, the operations of the workmen who are employed being supervised by three lay brethren. The herbs which give this delectable concoction its unique flavor are gathered on the mountains all around.

Salvation with a Bang.

(San Francisco Post.) Winfield, Kan., is enjoying a little Salvation Army entertainment. The town has been visited into two mobs, a juvenile drum corps marches beside the army through the streets and plays "Yankee Doodle" and "The Girl I Left Behind Me," while the Salvationists are praying. Reporters objectionable to the army have been warned to go armed, and the situation is as interesting as an O'Brien meeting.

Brooklyn Colony.

The California Land and Investment Company are now offering the best lands, in tracts of ten acres and upward, to be found in Southern California, and at the lowest prices.

The land is all well-watered, being in the arroyo, and all situated on the celebrated Cerritos rancho, only five miles from Long Beach. The town of Brooklyn is beautifully located within one mile of Signal Hill, which has lately been purchased by Raymond, upon which he is soon to erect a large hotel.

No other such chance for cheap homes is offered for persons of moderate means.

BASE-BALL.

GAMES IN LOS ANGELES AND SANTA MONICA YESTERDAY.

The Los Angeles Picked Nine Give the Peck & Ruggles an Awful Score and Defeat Them by a Score of 10 to 4.

The game of base-ball at the Sixth-street grounds yesterday, between the Peck & Ruggles and Los Angeles clubs, attracted a large audience. The game resulted in a victory for the Los Angeles team by a score of 10 to 4. Until the seventh inning it looked very much like a shut-out for the Peck & Ruggles nine, but in that inning two errors by the Los Angeles club and the home-run hit of Willigrod's over the right-field fence yielded three runs.

Walbridge, who pitched for the Los Angeles club, pitched a fine game and showed marked improvement over his last game. Monroe supported him in his usual style.

Knell was unfortunate in not having a catcher to support him and had to go behind the bat himself. Smith, of Pomona, taking his place in the box. George being due for a home run, hit the ball over the fence for four bases.

Following is the score:

AT SANTA MONICA.

The Tobins Beat the Picked Nine, 7 to 1.

The game at Santa Monica yesterday, between the Santa Monica Club and a picked nine, drew a fair-sized crowd to the spacious grounds of the former club. The playing of the picked nine was somewhat of a surprise to the Santa Monica boys, as it included among its number some very good ball-players.

The pitching of Ewing, late of the San Luis Obispo Club, was first-class, he striking out eight men and assisting nine.

Hunter, of the Tobin nine, did good work for the picked nine as back-stop, and scored the only run credited to that club.

For the Santa Monica English pitched his usual good game, Crawford covered first base in good style, and Farrell played second base for all it was worth.

Ramsey, the umpire, gave perfect satisfaction, and not a kick was registered against any of his decisions.

TWO FRIENDS MEET.

"Hello! old fellow. What have you been doing to yourself? You look like a subject for the undertaker," exclaimed the man on the right.

"I have been taking mercury and potash mixtures until they have nearly ruined me," squeaked the old man on crutches.

"And I," said the other, "have been taking the genuine Swift's Specific, which has built me up from the first dose."

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC.

Nature's own remedy, made from roots gathered from the forests of Georgia. The method by which it is made was obtained by a half-breed from the Creek Indians, who inhabited a certain portion of Georgia, which was communicated to one of the early settlers, and thus the formula has been handed down to the present day. The demand has been increasing until a $100,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. A foreign demand has been created, and enlarged facilities will be necessary to meet it. This great

THE MODEL CITY.

One mile east of Magnolia and Ontario; 600 feet higher than the townsite of Ontario, with a frontage of 250 feet on the Santa Fe Railroad; outside the wind belt; a never-failing supply of the purest mountain water, of sixteen inches, piped at high pressure through the town, is deeded with the land. The soil is a rich, warm loam, precisely the same as that in the famous Cucamonga vineyard, the finest in California—near which Marquette is located. Marquette is the center of the most productive fruit district in Southern California. MARQUETTE is unsurpassed, and commands the whole of that rich and fertile valley from Pomona and Rincon over the Chino Ranch to Riverdale, Colton and San Bernardino. A magnificent hotel is now being built at Marquette. A lively stable is engaged in construction, and a large force of men is engaged in making streets and other improvements. Money Is No Object.

The lives of your children are of priceless value. Every child is subject to sudden attacks of bowel complaint during the summer months. It is always alarming and often fatal. The only rational plan is to be provided at all times with the safest and surest remedy, and promptly treat the disorder in its first stages, and before the vitality becomes exhausted. Unexpected delays so often occur in sending for a physician or medicine, especially during the night or from a distance, that no one can afford to risk such uncertainties when life depends upon promptness. Keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand for instant use. It is made for bowel complaint only and is unquestionably the most reliable medicine ever brought into general use. The price is no object compared with its value in service life. Sold by C. H. Hancock, 77 and 79 North Spring street.

For fear of losing a day's work, many persons put off taking physic until Saturday. The better plan is to not delay, but take it as soon as needed; it may save you a hard spell of sickness. If you want the most benefit from the least amount of physic, without causing you any inconvenience, loss of appetite or rest, take St. Patrick's Pills. Their action on the liver and bowels are thorough. They give a freshness, tone and vigor to the whole system, and act in harmony with nature. Sold by C. H. Hancock, 77 and 79 North Spring street.
